

Sep 22nd 2023

Dear Sir/Madam,

This letter is being written to recommend Jie Zeng for your esteemed program in computer science. As the Leader of the Citi Campus Lecture Program jointly sponsored by collaborated by Citi and Chongqing University, I had the privilege of witnessing Jie's exceptional skills and performance firsthand from June to July 2023, during which he together with another 23 students participated in our intensive, enterprise-level training. They were immersed in a real-world software development environment and developed in groups a comprehensive system related to our bidding business, covering entire software development lifecycle.

Jie, leading his team of four, exemplified leadership and innovation, excelling in every sprint of the agile development process. They quickly developed the backend using Spring Boot MVC Framework, integrating WebSocket and a recommendation algorithm, adhering strictly to RESTful specification. In the subsequent sprint, during the transition to frontend development using the Angular framework, Jie's team implemented route guards and multi-role routing, also focusing on delivering visually appealing and responsive pages. The project was then deployed using Docker-Compose and Kubernetes, and the integration of the fine-tuned GPT-3.5 Turbo API brought sophistication and practicality to their project.

Their collective efforts were recognized when their system was chosen for presentation to the entire institution, a testament to its excellence. Jie's individual contributions earned him the title of "Excellence Individual" in our training, and his achievements were universally recognized by all of our Citi mentors, even leading to a direct job offer from our esteemed institution. In his speech to his entire institution, Jie expressed profound gratitude to our Citi mentors, emphasizing the invaluable practical learning he acquired.

In conclusion, Jie Zeng's engineering practice ability, coupled with his leadership, creativity, and the recognition he received from Citi, makes him an exceptional candidate for your program. I am confident in his potential to achieve greatness and make significant contributions to the field. I wholeheartedly support his application and believe he will be a valuable asset to your institution.
